Redevelopment and revitalization in a historic destination

The Fort Worth Stockyards National Historic District embodies the heritage of Texas's livestock industry. Developed in its totality by Oldham Goodwin in 2019, the 170-room SpringHill Suites by Marriott Fort Worth Historic Stockyards, which replaces a Well Fargo bank, honors that history by celebrating traditional elements of the old building and the surrounding area.

The hotel features 12,000 square feet of function space and a rooftop restaurant/bar, Ático, from celebrity chef Tim Love, known for his urban western cuisine.

Due to the hotel size and location, the project was well received and much needed in the Fort Worth Historic Stockyards District. Once the hotel opened, the guests loved the completely custom public space finishes and western décor.

Once in the guestroom, they felt as if they were in a SpringHill Suites by Marriott guestroom, with several upgraded amenities.

The anticipation, especially in the Stockyards, was extremely high, as Oldham Goodwin partnered with several businesses to bring the true Stockyards feel to the SpringHill Suites.

The hotel is currently a top destination, as designated by Visit Fort Worth, for groups and meetings under 150 guests.
